

Multiphoton Optics GmbH is a high-tech start-up in the growth phase and offers its 3D printing platform LithoProf3D®, a universal tool for the high-precision production of 3D structures, photonic packaging, and other products. We support our customers from the prototype to the production phase.

For our location in Würzburg, we are looking for a full-time employee as we expand our team.

Technical Sales Assistant (m/f/d)

Freedom, an open mind and fun are the most important prerequisites for fostering creativity and innovation.

- Your activity
- Support for existing and new customers
 - Developing customized solutions
 - Testing new products
 - Further development of growth segments
 - Travel worldwide (10 -20%)

- Your profile
- Completed technical training (science or engineering degree)
 - Interest in direct customer contact, contact and negotiating skills
 - Work experience in the sales of technical products in need of explanation
 - Willingness to integrate into new areas of expertise, flexibility
 - Independent working style, committed, team-oriented way of working, excellent communication skills, ability to learn, willingness to perform, pragmatic way of working, growth mindset
 - Quick comprehension and solution-oriented work attitude
 - Desirable is an interest in quality assurance
 - Language skills: German and English fluent, any other language welcome
 - Enjoy self-responsible work in a small, dynamic team with great growth potential without fear of speed

We offer an exciting and challenging task in a small dedicated and very dynamic team, with great freedom and the possibility to implement your own ideas independently in our products. Experience, know-how, passion and fun - if you are not afraid to follow unconventional paths, then you may be just the right fit to be a part of our team and challenging projects.

- We offer you
- Participate in the company's growth
 - Individual career and development opportunities in the context of business development
 - Flat hierarchies where you can make a difference
 - A Dynamically Creative Team
 - Constructive and open communication
 - Interesting tasking (Interesting work?)
 - A large professional network

Please send your application to with the necessary application documents to recruiting@multiphoton.de for consideration. Please also attach an abstract (maximum 2,800 characters including spaces) to your application, explaining what to expect when working in a startup company, what you expect from the company and discuss what excites you about the task.